<td>BULGARIA</td>
<td>Human egg donation is permitted with specific regulations. An egg donor is required to be anonymous except for donation to “close relatives (sisters and cousins).” Additionally, the donor must have one child and cannot have more than five children (including children as a result of her donation). Therefore, there is a central registry to record the donor’s details. An egg donor who donates anonymously cannot be older than 34, an egg donor who donates to a close relative cannot be older than 38.</td>

<td>Human egg donation is permitted as long as the donor is above the age of 18, the donation &quot;does not pose a health hazard&quot; and the donor does not have a disease, which could be transferred to the child or the woman receiving the egg. Donors are only to be identified by a donor code and the only data that can be shared about the donor is the donor’s skin colour, eye colour and hair colour. There clinic is requires to procure information; however, the information is destroyed from the clinic/service provider after two years “from the use, disposal or transfer...of the donated gametes or embryos.” There is a national registry, which is to keep the identification information of the donors. The donor cannot receive any compensation for the donation of eggs, but “the donor may be paid a reasonable sum in compensation of expenses, loss of income and other inconvenience arising from the donation.&quot;</td>
